RE: 2020 Pediatric Brain Health Summit _ November 5 - 6, 2020

The 2020 Pediatric Brain Health Summit is being held online, FREE and OPEN to the public November 5-6, 2020. The Summit is part of the Texas Pediatric Brain Health Initiative, a multi-sector, multi-agency collaboration focused on the prenatal to 3-year-old developmental window.

The purpose of this initiative is to use the current science on pediatric brain development to help inform and support program that promote community resilience and optimal development in Texas' children.

Speakers include:

Jack P. Shonkoff, MD, Julius B. Richmond FAMRI Professor of Child Health and Development at the Harvard T.H. Chan School of Public Health and Harvard Graduate School of Education

Cynthia Osborne, PhD, Associate Dean for Academic Strategies; Director, Center for Health and Social Policy; Director, Child and Family Research Partnership; Director, Prenatal-to-Three Policy Impact Center, The University of Texas at Austin

Topics to be covered:

- Policies and practices that help support families and mitigate adversity
- Why screen for social determinants of health, adverse childhood experiences, and postnatal depression in the pediatric setting
- Creating connections between community organizations and medical practice
- Big and little things that can be done in the pediatric practice to support families
